Upper and Lower design

Along with more traditional style, single-level units, St John's Rise will use an innovative 'Upper and Lower' design approach to ensure greater independence for longer with single-level homes. This approach benefits both the over and the under units; the over units reap the benefits of a sunny balcony with a sprawling outlook of the native landscape, and the under units have a private and easy to maintain courtyard, perfect for entertaining.

The Lower units face onto a row of Upper units, as is depicted in the image below, this maintains the sense of community and neighbourhood while ensuring each unit has its own privacy.

The range of interior styles allow you to choose a design best suited to your needs.

Benetas was founded in 1948 by a group of Anglican volunteers who responded to an urgent need to provide housing and support to older Victorians.

Today, Benetas continues to provide support to older Victorians through a range of different services.

As a not-for-profit organisation, we support over 4,000 older people every year to live fulfilling lives through independent living, community services and aged care homes across Victoria.

Our mix of services ensured our residents and clients can stay with us and move between our different services as and when they need them.

When you move into St John's Rise you will have the added benefit of knowing that if and when you need additional support, you can access Benetas' services, allowing you to remain as independent in your own home for as long as possible.
