The Dalkeith Heights family

The Dalkeith Heights community is more like a family than a group of residents. When residents move in, we have been told that they feel included within the community straight away and this feeling continues to grow over time. The lifestyle that Dalkeith Heights provides is one of the biggest benefits that our residents tell us about, and how they love their new community and the easy access to the facilities.

“My husband Peter and I moved together to Dalkeith Heights six years ago. When Peter had to move to Dalkeith Gardens, I felt it was easier on us both that I was still only a short walk from my home and we could still share our days together, even though he was in care. The Village community is like a family which you can be a part of, and still do your thing as well. It was the best choice for us, and we felt it was the best move we ever made.”

- Thea
